$1,000, which was furnished also by Mr. Blooming-dale. All the other cases were set down for further hearing to-morrow.

Later in the day Justice Donohue granted writs of certiorari in favor of the Woodhall sisters on application of their counsel, who averred that the sisters were committed under excessive bail, in violation of their constitutional rights, for a charge of simple assault and battery, of which they are innocent."

The exact place of hiding of John Gill is kept a strict secret by the Gill family. There is no doubt that Mrs. Poole knows where the old man is. She has left her house in East Twenty-seventh-st. and it is surmised that she has moved her father to quarters further down town. John McMahon, attorney for the Gills, said to a Tribunk reporter: "I could go on the stand and take onth as to my ignorance of John Gill's present abode. I have told them not to tell me, but this much I do know: that when the Commissioners want him produced he will be in court inside of fifteen minutes. I don't want to make unpleasant remarks, but if we had almost any other firm of lawyers in the city to contend against I should have communicated to them the place where old Mr. Gill can be found, and have had no secrecy at all in the matter. As it is, I have told my clients to keep the secret from every one. You may be sure we shall produce him, as he is our strongest exhibit."

EXCURSION OF THE SEEDSMEN.

EXCURSION OF THE SEEDSMEN.

The American Seed Trade Association, which has been in session in this city during the week, was yesterday tendered an excursion by the New-York seedsmen. The steamer Magenta, with about 150 members of the association and their friends, left her wharf at the food of Weat Twenty-first-st, at 2:30 p.m. for a trip up the Hudson. The weather was delightful. A gentle breeze tempered the heat and made the excursion doubly pleasant. After an hour's sail the steamer turned back in her course, rounded the Battery, and went up as far as Hell Gate. Then it returned and went down the Bay. The seedsmen admired the scenery, told stories of the wonderful vegetables they have raised, and took observations through classes. The inspiring notes of a German band added interest to the occasion. At 4 o'clock a lanch was served in the cabin. The general topic of cabbages and turnips was forgotten and the attention of the association became riveted on ice-cream, strawberries and coffee. After sailing as far as Sandy Hook the steamer returned to this city at 8:30 p. m. The visiting seedsmen were enthusiastic over the reception which had been tendered them by the members of the New-York trade.

The next session of the association will be held in Boston on the second Tuesday of June, 1884.

ITALIAN MOTHERS AND SCHOOL AGENTS.

Tralian Mothers and school agents. There was a flutter among the Italians of Roosevelt-st, vesterday afternoon, for two agents of the Board of Education were going their rounds bunting out small boys and girls who have been playing truant from school. The majority of the inhabitants of the region evidently regarded Vincenzo Cristalli and Antonio C. Martinez as their natural enemies, and as a consequence children were scarce. It is between the ages of eight and fourteen that children are submitted to the tyramy of compulsory education, but a consus is kept of them three years in advance. For the day, therefore, they were all either four or fifteen. Little Italian children all die when they are but four years and eleven months old, or else they are born at the age of fifteen.

A peculiar circumstance was that there were usually more children of the required ages found in the first room of a house than in any other. While the agents were cross-questioning the mother there the the first room of a house than in any other. While the agents were cross-questioning the mother there the other members of the household were heard rushing up-stairs and giving the alarm. Now and then a different welcome was awaiting them. One woman answered them with tears in her eyes that since her eldest boy went to school he had changed from a rogue to a good son, and from a fool to a smart lad, and in her enthusiasm she wanted the names of her whole househould, including her husband and a three-weeks-old infant, to be put upon the books. But such instances were rare.

COLLISION WITH A CANAL-BOAT.

The ferry-boat Jersey City, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, came into collision, about 6:40 yesterday morning, with a canal-boat belonging to the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, opposite Pier 39 North River. The canal-boat was in tow, with several other canal-boats, by the tug-boat General Sheridan, and it was loaded with 125 tons of coal. The stern was stove in and she sunk within fifty feet of Pier 41. The ferry-boat, which was on its way to Debrosce-st, ferry, was filled with passengers. A slight excitement was caused by the collision but it was quieted quickly. The wheel of the ferry-boat was broken slightly. At the office of the superintendent of the ferry company it was said that the wheel simply grazed the stern of the canal-boat, which must have been very rotten.

A. B. Valentine, agent of the Cornell Steamboat Company, who was on the tag, said that the tag had rounded to for the purpose of putting of a boat of coal for the Albany line at Vestry-st, when the City of Norwich came up and whistled, desiring to pass into her pier. The tug responded and kept its engine in metion to hold up against the tide. The Jersey City then whistled to the City of Norwich that she would pass in, and in doing so she struck the outer canal boat.

A TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S THREAT.

A TELEGRAPH COMPANY'S THREAT.

The long discussion by the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange at its meeting on Wednesday in regard to the relations of the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company with the Exchange was provoked by a threatening letter from the telegraph company. If a rival company was to be admitted to the floor, the letter stated that the Gold and Stock Company would remove its telegraph instruments and begin suits against the Exchange. The contract made with the Gold and Stock Company expired about two years ago and has never been formally renewed. It has been allowed to continue in force indefinitely by the tacit consent of both parties to it. The receipt of a letter threatening legal proceedings against the Exchange excited a great deal of indignation among the Governors, and the discussion became long and heated. The result was the adoption of a resolution directing the secretary to send notice to the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company that the contract would be terminated at the end of the month, and that the terms on which the company would be allowed to occupy the Exchange after that time would be a matter of agreement from month to month. CAPTURE OF A GERMAN EMBEZZLER.

On board the steamship Amsterdam, which arrived here yesterday, was one George Lachner, a German embezzler. Deputy Sheriff O'Connor arrested Lachner as soon as he landed. The arrest was made upon an order issued by Judge Donohuein an action began in the Supreme Court by Franz Sturzer to recover $4,320. The suit is for wronngful conversion of money. The order of arrest was granted upon an affisiavit made by August Feigei, the Cousui-General of Germany in this city. It is alleged that Lachner, on May 22, at Munich, Bavaris, received from Joseph Schuelien, a banker, some 18,000 marks, the property of Sturzer, and that he ran away from Munich in company with a woman. Upon the appearance at the Sheriff's office of Sturzer's counsel, Messrs. Solomon and Dulon, of No. 115 Broadway, Lachner offered to refund the 18,000 marks. The offer was accepted and he was released. He stated that he intended to return to Munich. CAPTURE OF A GERMAN EMBEZZLER.

REGISTER'S OFFICE NOTES.

By a deed recorded yesterday in the Register's Office, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Oakley transferred to the city property containing about 2% acres situated on Ward's Island. The consideration for which the conveyance was made was $2,500 for each 2,500 quired at a cost of $75,000 the building and lot 25 2-3x72 feet at No. 51 Liberty-st.

Robert Lindsey has purchased eleven lots on One-hundred-and-thirty-second and One-hundred-and-thirty-third sts., between Seventh and Eighth aves. for $66,000 and obtained a loan of $141,000 on the property, the sum being payable on demand.

THE EXPLOITS OF TWO BOY BURGLARS.

THE EXPLOITS OF TWO BOY BURGLARS.

Albert Daly, thirteen years old, who lived at No. 502 West Fiftieth-st., was arrested vesterday while committing a burglary at No. 218 West Fifty-ninth-st. Rooms in the house have been occupied recently by General Fremont. W. H. Beede, who holds a lease of the house, is travelling in the West with his family. A quantity of silverware owned by him has been stored in a drying room on the fifth floor. Daly learned in some way where the property was kept, and he formed a plan to steal it, procuring the assistance of a butcher's boy.

On Tuesday the boys broke into the room and carried away several articles in the butcher's basket. They were to make another haul yesterday morning and Daly got into the room at 6 o'clock to wait for his confederate. He upset something in the room and the noise was heard by Patrick Connolly, a son of the janitor. A poinceman who was summoned found the young their in the drying-room and arrested him. Daly said he had buried the silver stolen on Tuesday in the yard in the rear of the tenement-house where he lived. It was recovered by the police, who also began a search for the butcher's boy. Daly was held by Justice Herrman, at the Yorkville Police Court, in $1,000.

A FORTUNE LOST AND SOON RECOVERED.

Renben H. Ploss, who lives in West One-hundred-and-twenty-sixth-st., entered a Fulton ferry-boat on the Brooklyn side about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He carried a large roll of drawings and a satchel. When he took his seat in the gentlemen's cabin, he placed the satchel alongside of him and held the drawings. The boat arrived at the New-York slip and Mr. Ploss started for the ferry bridge, Suddenly he realized that he had forgotton his satchel and returned for it, only to find that it had disappeared. He cried to the deck hands that he had lost a fortune. An alarm was raised. Captain Caffrey and Officer Goodman, of the New Street Police Station, responded. They burried to the ferry-gate and, glarcing along South-st., saw two men with a satchel. They started in pursnit and caught the men at Beckman and Front sts. They gave the names of Owen Quinn and James Cullen. The satchel was opened at the station, and it was found to contain six certificates of stock of the Double Healing and Cutting Company of New-York. Mr. Ploss, who was terribly excited, asserted that the shares were worth $87,000, and that they could be negotiated by any person. Cullen and Quinn will be arraigned in court to-day. A CARD FROM MR. WEBER.

A CARD FROM MR. WEBER.

Albert Weber has sent to the Press a card addressed to the public in which he protests against the nature of the recently published statements concerning his affairs and denies the accuracy of these statements. He asserts that every possible effort has been made to discredit and embarrass the firm which he represents—a firm, he says, "which has had an unbiemished and most honorable record for the last thirty years, having been founded as far back as 1853." This honorable record he proposes to continue. Mr. Weber adds:

Except in one or two instances, all the statements made about me or attributed to be in interviews alleged to have been held with me are either incorrect or absolutely false. I have not surk $40,000 in newspapers, and so far as the attrical ventures are concerned. I never spent a dollar in one, either directly or indirectly in my life. It is but right for me to add that so far as the estate of Albert Weber is concerned it is not absolutely solvent, but was never in a more prosperous condition than it is to-day—a fact that even its competitors have admitted. So far as I am personally concerned I will say this, that whatever obligations I have incurred I intend to meet them all, dollar for dollar, without fluciling.

INVESTIGATING THE CARROLL FRAUDS.

George E. Hill, one of the Commissioners of Accounts, testified yesterday before the Aldermen's Committee that in their quarterly examinations of the Controller's office the Commissioners took cognizance of the vouchers only. Had a comparison been made with the coupons the Carroll frauds would have been promptly discovered. Controller Campbell gave a detailed statement of the salaries paid in his office. A statement was submitted by the counsel for W. C. Emmet, one of the discharged clerks, to the effect that of April 6 the disbursing object to a visit of April 6 the disbursing object to a visit of the warrant for $219,989, fully signed by the Controller. Mayor and Chamberlain, although the correctness of the warrant had not been certified by the Auditor. On May 4 a warrant similarly signed, for $624,866 13, was found by Emmet without the Auditor's signature, and on the previous day an account had been audited at $1,445 88 while the warrant called for $1,145 88. Controller Campbell said to the committee that it was possible in signing a large number of papers that he had not noticed the absence of the Auditor's signature in one or two instances. Mr. Emmet testified to the facts set forth in the statement of his counsel. INVESTIGATING THE CARROLL FRAUDS.

A SUMMER HOUSE FOR WORKING WOMEN. A SUMMER HOUSE FOR WORKING WOMEN.

The Sea Shore Cottage established by Mrs. Fletcher Harper, fr., at North Long Branch, N. J., will be opened for the season of 1883 on June 15. It is intended as a summer resort for the young working women of New-York who have not the means of paying the charges at other places, and who have but a short time for vacation.

The cottage is situated on the seashore and everything is provided for the comfort of the visitors. Surf bathing may be enjoyed upon the beach immediately in front of the cottage. Fifty visitors can be accommodated at one time. It is desirable that acquaintances should try to visit the cottage together, as each room will be occupied by two per-

A ROOFER SHOOTS HIMSELF.

Jacob Borkel, a roofer, of No. 199 East Houstonst., shot himself in the head in Mt. Morris Park early vesterday morning. He was taken to the Ninety-ninth Street Hospital, where it was thought he would die from his injury. It was learned, by inquiry at his home yesterday, that he was thirty-three years old and had a wife and two young chidren. He was in partiership at No. 205 South Fifth-ave, with Mr. Burkelman. Being an experienced workman, Borkel attended to the outdoor work and collected the bills. Burkelman learned recently that Burkel had collected several small sums which had not been reported as paid, and he questioned his partner about the matter. Borkel said that he would explain everything on Friday. On that day, however, he disappeared after taking an affectionate leave of his wife and children. Mr. Burkelman said yesterday that Borkel had taken about $200 belonging to the firm.

Among the certificates of death received at the Bureau of Vital Statistics yesterday, there were two in which cremation was given as the mode of disposing of the bodies. One is that of Mrs. Cornelia Wollberg, the wife of a mining broker, at Broad way and Exchange-place. She was a native of Belgium, thirty-nine years old, and had been living in this country twenty-two years. She and her husband were members of the Society for Ethical Culture. Her death occurred on Wednesday at No. 7 Fifth-ave., where the family was boarding. A service for the dead will be conducted there to-day by Felix Adler. The other body is that of Mrs. Bertha Blechen, a German woman thirty years old, whose home was at No. 1,062 Avenue-A. She died from a cancer on Wednesday, and previous to her death had expressed a desire to have her body burned. Both bodies wil be removed to Washington, Penn., to-day, for cremation. TRIAL OF A NEW FIRE ENGINE.

TRIAL OF A NEW FIRE ENGINE.

The Remington Horse-Power Fire Engine was tested yesterday afternoon at the Battery under the direction of Chief Bates and some twenty of his men. The engine may be worked either by horse or hand power and in construction is simple and compact. It is of the size of a market wagon and weighs a trifle over 3,000 pounds. The engine consists of three double-acting pumps attached to a large driving, wheel, which has slots to receive the levers by which it is worked.

Trials were made with four horses, two horses, one horse and by hand. In each case a 34 inch stream was thrown 170 feet horizontally and some 70 feet vertically. The great merit of the engine is said to be the rapidity with which it can be made ready for use. It was done yesterday in 1 minute and 35 seconda.

TRIALS OF LOTTERY MEN POSTPONED.

The cases of Z. E. Simmons, John Simmons, John Hackett and others, who were among the most prominent of the persons arrested a year ago for violations of the lottery laws, were on the calendar of the Court of General sessions yesterday. They were, however, adjourned to the next term with the assent of District-Attorney McKeon. The cases have been several times on the calendar, but have never been tried, although the defendants have asserted that they were ready for trial, Mr. McKeon declined yesterday to give his reasons for not ordering the trials. In the case of Z. E. Simmons a writ of certificari, returnable in October, has been obtained from Judge Donohue. Mr. McKeon said that he would apply for an order to show cause why that writ should not be set aside.

RAILROAD TRACKS THAT ARE A NUISANCE.

The Grand Jury yesterday ordered the drawing of an indictment for maintaining a nuisance against the Bleecker-st, and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company. A petition had been received from a large number of business firms in Water-st, complaining that the railroad company had falled to remove tracks laid in Water-st, between Peck Slip and Fulton-st, which had not been used for several years. The rails interfered with the passage of trucks and caused street blockades, and had also, it was said, become so worn and broken as to be dangerous. The Commissioner of Public Works thought be had not the power to compel the removal of the tracks and an application was made to the Grand Jury. Several merchants were summoned as witnesses and testified that the tracks were a nuisance.

HIGHER MEDICAL EDUCATION.

ADDRESS OF DR. D. B. ST. JOHN ROOSA BEFORE THE ADDRESS OF DR. D. B. ST. JOHN ROOSA BEFORE THE MEDICAL GRADUATES OF SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 14.—The address before this year's graduating class of the Medical Department of Syracuse University was delivered by Dr D. B. St. John Roosa, of New-York. Taking for his theme "The Next Step for the Medical Profession of the United States," and after referring to some features of the history of medicine, the contentions of doctors, and the origin of systems or schools, he spoke in part as follows:

1 venture to ask you to consider with me what I regard as one of the next steps to be taken by the medical profession of our State, and of the other States of our country, to enable us to more perfectly fulfil our mission as one of the powers of the land. It seems to me plain enough to be seen that all the medical colleges of the State should be made to assume the same position now taken by the Medical Department of this University, as well as by that of Harvard, in Cambridge. This is the next step required of the profession of our country. I have had some acquafficance with medical colleges, and I assert, without fear of successful contradiction, that the standard of attainment in the best of them in this State is too low. You will not assume from this, that I am speaking slightingly of the opportunities for study that are given in our colleges of the city of New-York. After some study of the opportunities of the medical schools of the Old World, as well as of this country, I know of no colleges where a man who is well prepared by previous study and preparation, and who is dilicent during his three years, may acquire a better fundamental education. But the fatal defect of the system by which they are conducted is, that it is voluntary to such a degree that many incomjetent men may and do attain the degree of Doctor in Medicine. Having once attained it from any chartered college, the graduate is ipso fuclo licensed to practise in this State.

The apologies or defences of the voluntary system are of various MEDICAL GRADUATES OF SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY.

but a practical experience of several years in endeavoring to secure ap endowment for one of the medical colleges of the State, has convinced ms that there are at present some insurmountable objections to this plan. The country is still so young and so needy, so poorly educated on the subject of endowing medical schools, that for a long time it wil be impossible to secure money enough to endow even one good school. Let us see if there is any other way out of our troubles. If we can so arrange matters that the labor of securing the proper endowments for thorough medical instruction shall come apon those most interested, they will soon gone up to it. This can be accomplished if the State can be induced to go a step further in the way of legislation on medical subjects than she now does. If every one of these colleges had as high a standard as the best one, it would indeed be a great advance over the time when the seventh son of a seventh son, the ciairvoyant, the cancer doctor, and the herb doctor, practised their arts without let or hindrance. But, even if all our celleges were as good is our best, the law leaves untouched the chief evil, and that, briefly stated, is the following: With the colleges remains the power of giving a license to practise. It is an anomalous state of things that allows the interested teachers to confer legal privileges. In New-York City, which I think we may fairly call the centre of medical education in this country, the professors who teach the seven improved in many respects, and made worse in others by various makeshifts. There is but one remedy for this state of things. That remedy is at our hand. There must be a Board of Examiners, like the Army and Navy Boards, or the Board of Examiners, like the Army and Navy Boards, or the Board of Examiners, like the Army and the sense in proved in many respects, and made worse in others by various makeshifts. There is but one remedy for this state of things. That remedy is at our hand. There must be a Board of Examiners, like the Army and ha

L. I., the case was referred to the Sufiolk County authorities.

Commodore T. D. Wilson, Chief of Bureau of Construction and Repair at the Navy Department, Washington, in company with Rear-Admiral George H. Cooper, commandant of the North Atlantic Squadron, made a general survey of the Navy Yard yesterday. After the customary salutes, Commodore Wilson visited the frigate Tennessee, the Hagaship of Admiral Cooper, was then visited.

The police guessed wide of the mark when they thought that the notorious silver thief had been captured last week in the person of Robert Stone. Stone is still in custody, but the silver thief was at work in the Nineteenth Ward, where he had not before appeared, yesterday morning. He took silver of more or less value from the houses of Charles C. Burgher, No. 168 Wilson-st., William Haviland, No. 164 Wilson-st., and Thomas Keenedy, No. 50 Elec-ave.

Diedrich Mahuken, who shot Diedrich Stefens at Yanderbilt and Park aves on April 17, killing him instantly, was arraigned in the Court of Sessions yesterday on the charge of murder in the first degree. His counsel interposed a plea of not guilty on the charge of murder in the first degree. His counsel interposed a plea of not guilty on the charge of purder in the first degree. His counsel interposed a plea of not guilty on the charge of murder in the first degree. likely that the State Camp will become a permanent institution. Much was learned from last year's experience which will add to the efficiency of the service in future. Last year camp was opened July 1 by the 23d of Brooklyn, followed by the 12th Regiment and Second Separate Company, the 8th Regiment and Second Separate Company, and was closed by the 22d Regiment on August 4. In all there were 2,670 officers and men, and they were paid $21,447 50. The 7th Regiment applied too late for a chance to go fino camp last year, and the 13th applied for the first chance this year, but the 71st gets in ahead of them. The tours of duty will be as follows: Seventy-first Regiment, June 23-30; 13th Regiment, June 30 to July 7; 65th Regiment, 19th, 38th, 40th and 41st Separate Companies, July 7-14; 74th Regiment, Company B of 10th Battalion, 20th and 30th Separate Companies, July 7-14;

HE AGAIN COUNTS HIMSELF AS ONE OF THEIR NUMBER.

From the Rev. O. B. Prothingham's Address at the Unitarian Pestical in Boston.

Though not an old man, I have my memorics, and I think of the time when I came forward full of enthusiasm and courage and hope, looking to the future of this denomination. There were Channing the prophet, and Ripley the scholar, and my father the beautiful writer, and Greenwood the poet, and Peabody the prescher, and Dewey the orator, and Bellows the organizer; and I think of my contemporary and dear friend and intimate, Thomas Starr King, that star of the first magnitude—that Thomas who never disbelleved, but always was a believer—a man of faith and aspiration, always looking forward, but looking with intellect, with valor and with an indomitable will. [Applause.] And now, sir, as I look back it is upon times of conflict and discruss, division and dissension and suspicion. They are all gone. The time has gone by when anybody need dissent or take a new departure or come out from this body. [Applause.] In those times when there were two wings, one rigot and the other left—the unfortunate thing was that the wings did not beat the same air and the bird did not make for the light. The wings wrought in different directions—one wanted it to go up and the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it to go to the left. One wanted it to keep straight on and the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it to go to the left. One wanted it to keep straight on and the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it to go to the left. One wanted it to keep straight on and the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it of any of the left. One wanted it to keep straight on and the other wanted it to go to the right, the other wanted it of any of the left. The symbols are the same, but they are symbols now, not dogmas, and those symbols are loaded by the voing men—and the old men

"You'd think Wawterson wuz in," said the Elevator Boy to the tail, spare man dressed in black, yesterday, "Ir you wuz up there lissen's too the hooraw. He come back from Noo-Yawk this morn's and he's been ratsin' sich L as they haven's had up there for some time."

it, and he didn't keer. 'who let it in' holiers Wawter-son, swalierin' blood. Then I come down, and I dono wno's left on the paper. Maby there sin't enuff repor-ters holdin' to their saireys to get out the paper tomor-row."

There were evidences of great disturbance on the grieved man's countenance.

"But if you want to see hall glory," continued the boy, whispering, "jist you hide behind that box and wait till Wawterson comes down and old man Haiderman and Marrydeth eatches him. They're layin' for him in there now, and Marrydeth's got a bill agin him for race-hosses that would make your head swim. Marrydeth's done peached on him about bettin' at Waitzes, and thold man is nearin' up like a cloze biler. Wawterson's mighty high up with them reporters, but thold man's bigger down in this naberhood than Lew Clark looks at the hossraces."

The visitor murmured something indicating a regetful idea that he had better wait for a day or two, and took his leave with the Elevator Boy still on deck. A rumor has somehow started that the solemn visitor was seen at Senator McDonaid's residence in Indianapolis last month.

"Yes," said the gilded youth. "I want a wife to make kome pleasant." "But," objected his friend, "you'd be howing round town nights all the same." Yes; but now nobody cares, and it would be such a comfort to feel that somebody was at home mad about it."—¡Boston Post.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has a wonderful power over all scrofulous troubles, as the testimonials published unmistatably prove. Hood's Sarsa-parilla is the very best remedy for scrofula and scrofulous af-fections, and is to-day the most powerful purifier of the blood. One Bottle in Small Doses.

He come back from Noo-Yawk this morn'n and he's been ratin' sich L as they haven't had up there for some time."

The grieved countenance of the stranger lit up with its first smile and he intimated an anxiety to go right p.

"Fiwas you," suggested the boy patronizingly and kindly. "I'd not go up there till ail of it was blowed over, 'came Wawterson's in his room singin' out all he has suffered. He see to Jones, he see, 'vno's out and wrote this unutterable sloober 'bout Rassineer's havin' prime onnants that'll make a old smoker's mouth wawter! Jones see one of the boys. 'Send him home where he kin smoke bananas more at his lesure. Who's bin and wrote this hog wash 'bout Rassineer's adding fine domestic liquors to his import trade! 'One of the boys,' see Jones. 'Throw him out,' see Wawterson, just bin's.' 'There's nuff whisky swallered in this ouildin' to teach these d—d reporters that domestic whisky can't be imported.' 'That's one ov my best men,' see Jones. 'Less try some bad ones then,' see Wawterson."

'The visitor looked uneasy at this state of affairs.

'When he read that 'bout gon' back on the Spurgeon sermons cox they cost so much time and trouble, he believed out: 'New wat lumbasted ham has wrote this yer lot backdown,' he see. 'Why in the bine blazes didn't he come out in a editorial and say: We dowant spurgeon's sermons cox they ain't rich enough for our blood. They don't cost enuff and they don't give us can'f trouble. We heve got pienty of money and we pants for trubole. That would aswe catched suckers—this yer gives us dearhway to the sand."

The grieved man was saddened by these reports of internectue strife.

"Hyou could 'a saw him," added the youth, "when he catched holt of that artikle of Sheriey's givin' his shotgan editorial L, it would 'a paid you as much as a circus. 'Well,' sex he,' bigod I think this beats a railroad accident. Who let in this yer rot agin, the cheap jestice of the shot-gun'! Jones sex nothin', 'cause he ham's wrote it, and he ddin't keer. Our little girl, a little over two years old, had a scrofulous humor show itself in the form of an eraption on the left side of her head and face. She could not lie on that side at all, as the scabs commenced on the left cheek, just front of the ear, and extended half way round her head.

Just at that time I received one of Head's Cook Books, which brought to my mind the benefit one of my friends had received on taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, with good effect, for constant headache. We saw Mr. Cole, who told us the particulars of his wife's illness, as she related it in Hood's Cook Book. He advised us by all means to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. parilla.
